John's Domestic Erection.

Behold the monster reared by Daedalus Jack,
The male, stored in a phallic sack,
In the proud circus of a man's biceps.
Mark how the red-fanged fangs invade
The golden store in John's paragon fold.
Aton, with velvet foot and Tarquin stride, Subtle glances to her quarry elude; Grasping grim that slow the fierce rodent Whom those luscious John's neckcloth reels.

Lo! now the deep moulded outline too's assault,
That vexed avenger of the stolen malt, Stored in the hallowed precinct of that hall That rose complete at John's creative call.

Here stalks the impetuous cow, with crumpled horn
Whom the exasperating hound was born, That bayed the feline slaughter-bear, this slew

The rat prefaceous, whose keen fangs ran through
The textile fabric that involved the grain That lay in John's furtive domain.

Here walks, forlorn, the daimed, crowned with rite, Lactiferous spoils from vacuine dugs that drew

Of that circulate heart whose tortuous horn Toiled to the sky, in fierce vindictive scorn The herring hound, whose braggart bark and air

Reached the lithic spine and reared the bulging nut for

Of pose, that with verminous claw Struck the welled rat, in whose voracious maw

Lay malt that erst in Juan's courts we saw, Reared in senescent garb that seems to south Toe long a prey to Chronos' iron tooth.

Behold the man whose amorous lips incline, Full with young Erse's osculatory sign,
To the lone maiden whose lacto-abundant hands Dew allu-lauic wealth from lactical glands
Of that immortal boyne by whose horn, Disjoint, to realms ethereal was borne

The bearded Catiline, viceroy of the sly Glycose quadruped, who made die
The old wretched rat that dared devour Antecedent scene in John's domestic bow.

Lo! here, of hisse, John's doctored, smoothened of apocryphous looks the priest that linked In Hymen's golden bands the torn untrifled, Whom means exigent stared thro' many a riff,

Given as he kissed the maiden all forlorn, Who milked the cow with implacable horn,
Who in the wrath the canine torturer shed That dared to vex the insidious muricide, That let avenging effluence thro' the pet Of the sly rat that robbed the place Jack built.

The loud causticulous shaghtal comes at last,
Whom shouts around the chortle ecstasies That sealed the rows of Hymen's sacrament To him, who, robed in garments indigent, Unmolested the virgin lactary morn,
The enquirer of that horned beast morose That teased the dog, that worried the cat, That kilt

be rat, that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built.

The Trailing Arbutus.

AUGUSTUS H. GORKE.

After the snows their fleecy covers Lift from the ground, By prostrate stems the year discovers When buds abound.

With lips grown warm at their own pressure Fair April breeze
Have first kisses on my treasure, His boyish prize.

Waiting line are forced asunder In loving much,
Petals open in glad wonder At April's touch.

Here, in thine New England twining, O flower of mine!
Hold thy clusters fast, consign My face to thine.

At April come in cruel fashion Through empty years,
By scented blossoms breathes a passion That brings the tears.

Selected Tale.

THE TAILOR AND THE SPONGE.
Near the close of the last century, Quaker knight of the shears and Philadelphian, who exercised his avocation in Philadelphia, was imposed upon by adroit scoundrel, who contrived to a suit of clothes on credit, and afterwards slipped without paying for the Quaker was too poor to the debt, but like too many of his kind, had apparently no other alternative. The account was placed on his books and soon forgotten. Some years afterwards he was examining old records of debt and credit, and lo! there, when his attention was attracted to this account and all the circumstances attending it came fresh into his mind. Suddenly an odd thought suggested itself. "I'll try an experiment," said he to himself; "perhaps I may succeed in catching the rogue and my pay."

He immediately prepared an advertisement, in substance as follows, and it was inserted in the Philadelphia Gazette: "If J. W. C. _____ the year 1785, will send his address the editor of this paper, he will hear something of his advantage. Principal in the neighboring States are repeated to copy." The latter clause was inserted from a vague suspicion that the rogue had taken up his abode in New York.

Having instructed the editor not to close his name to the rogue if he made call, but to request the latter to give his address, the Quaker patiently waited the result of his experiment.

In a short time he was informed by a note from the printer that the individual alluded to in the advertisement, having arrived from New York, might be found at a given place in the city.

The tailor lost no time in preparing a transcript of his account, not forgetting to charge interest from the date that the debt was incurred. Taking a constable with him, who bore a process sealed to the occasion, he arrived at the lodgings of the swindler. The constable was instructed to stand off at a little distance till a signal should indicate the time for him to approach.

The Quaker now rang the bell, and, when the servant appeared, requested him to inform the gentleman of whom he was in search, that a friend wished to speak with him at the door.

The man obeyed the summons, and soon both debtor and creditor were looking each other in the face.

"How dost thou do?" kindly inquired the Quaker. "Perhaps you do not know me."

"I believe I have not had the pleasure of your acquaintance," politely answered our hero.

"Dost thou remember purchasing a suit of clothes several years ago of a poor tailor, and forgetting to pay for them?" asked the Quaker.

"Oh no," said the gentleman, blushing slightly; "you must be mistaken in the person. It cannot be me that you wished to find."

"Ah, John! I know thee very well.
Thou art the very man I wished to see. Thou hast on at this moment the very waistcoat that I made for thee.
Thou must acknowledge it was of good stuff and well made, or it could not have lasted thee so long."

"O yes," said the gentleman, apparently suddenly recollecting himself; "I do remember the circumstances to which you allude; yes, yes, I had intended to call and settle the little bill before leaving Philadelphia, and you may depend on my doing so. I have come here to take possession of a large amount of property which has fallen to me by will. See! here is the advertisement which apprised me of my good fortune."

He had handed to the Quaker a New York paper containing a copy of the advertisement whose history we have given above. The Quaker looked at it with imperturbable gravity, and continued—

"Yes, I see thou art in luck, but as my demand is a small one, I think I must insist on payment before thou comest into possession of thy large estate."

The proper signal here brought the constable into the presence of the parties. The swindler was particularly astounded at the appearance of this functionary, who immediately began to execute his part of the drama.

"What!" exclaimed the rogue in an angry tone; "you surely have not sued me?"

"Yes, I have," replied the Quaker;
"and thou shouldst be thankful that nothing worse has happened thee."

"Come in, then," said the debtor, finding himself fairly caught; "come in, and I will pay you if I must."

The three went into the house together, and the slippery gentleman having ascertained the amount of the bill, paid it to full.

The tailor having signed the receipt, placed it in the hands of his late creditor, with feelings such as may be readily imagined. The swindler took it, and for the first time glanced at the various items of which it was composed. He said nothing until he came to the last charge, which was for "advertising," when he broke forth—

"Hallo! what's this? For advertising? That's an odd charge in a tailor's bill. You're cheating me."

"Q no," coolly replied the Quaker;
"that is all right. I have charged thee the cost of publishing the advertisement which thou hast just showed me."

Here the swindler uttered a horrid oath, as he demanded, "Do you mean to say that you caused the publication of that advertisement?"

"Truly I did," replied the Quaker, with most provoking coolness.

"You told a—lie in it," quickly retorted the rogue.

"Convince me of that," said the Quaker, "and thou wilt find me ready to confess the fault."

"You said I should hear something to my advantage, if I would come here."

"Thou art mistaken," immediately responded the Quaker; "I only promised that thou shouldst hear of something to advantage; and is it not to advantage of a poor tailor to collect an old debt?"

"If I can catch you in the street," said the swindler with an oath and in the deepest rage, "I'll give you such a cowhiding as will not leave the breath in your body."

"Nonsense, now," said the Quaker;
"if thou really intendest to do anything of that sort we had better step out into the back yard and finish the business at once."

The rogue was completely nonplussed by the coolness of the Quaker and stood speechless and almost petrified.

"Now," said the tailor, good naturedly, "let me give thee a piece of advice. When next thou hast occasion to get a suit of clothes, thou had better not attempt to cheat the poor tailor, but pay him honestly, for then will thy sleep be sweet and refreshing.
Farewell!"

ed. After his death it was discover-

HOW THE ASTHMA MADE IT HOT FOR A PAIR OF OLD POKER PLAYERS.

While Captain Foster was swapping lies with Ned Fry, out at the Cliff House last Monday, Oscar drove up with Mr. Lock, and, taking a staid glass attitude on the balcony, was for some minutes lost in a contemplation of the grand old ocean breaking on the cliffs far down below him.

"How grand the roar of the ocean," he said dreamily to the captain.

The captain was a little taken aback, but agreed that it was.

"Would any price be too great for the glory of watching it hour by hour and day by day, through the p'aid waveless days of summer and the grand turbulence of the windy gale?"

"Fifty a month," said the captain, who, while Oscar sighed unheeded, asked Fry what kind of a canary bird it was anyhow.

After a time they went to the bar where Oscar ordered "some milk fresh from some nature's odorless laboratory," while the others took a little lemon in theirs. Then Fry and the captain and another gentleman sat down to play "dollar ante."

"What ez dollar ante?" said Oscar, dreamily in a mezzo-soprano sigh.

They explained.

"I, too, will fill in the passing hour, if I may."

"Of course," and they gave him a set and chuckled way down in their bronchial tubes.

A great sadness was upon him.— Sometimes an unutterable melancholy would fill with dark shadows his dreaming eyes, but he said little—only sighed.

Captain Foster did not sigh. Several times he might have been heard to remark something about dynamite.

Mr. Fry was also a little melancholy but talked in a different strain several times, saying lamplily, "the luck."

By and by it was Oscar's deal, and he carelessly the cards gently and distributed them mournfully, like crumbled at communion.

Everybody went in. The captain took two cards; Fry took one and Oscar one.

"I will continue a five spot," said the captain locating a five-dollar piece in the center of the green.

"It will cost you five more," remarked Mr. Fry dissimulating a ten.

"Behrew me, but I am oppressed with doubt," murmured Oscar; "could I but penetrate the dark veil of the future—no; nay, then I will risk all," and he doubtfully and sadly put up his portion.

"Ten harder," said the captain.

"Ten more than you," remarked Fry.

Oscar knitted his brow. "Verily I am in the vortex, and the overshadowing sky is murky, but I must stay. I will—how do you phrase it—call, call on you."

And the captain joined the merry throng.

"Three aces," said he.

"Full hand," said Fry proudly, as he showed his cards and reached out for the money.

"Too-too," the poet murmured, as he almost weepingly laid down four deuces.

And when the captain had flung his cards out of the window and Fry was making the air blue with interjections, Oscar winked his eye audibly, and remarked in his natural frame of mind:

"Now that I remember it, gentlemen, we used to indulge in this little recreation at Oxford. Come and take a snifter with me."

A Tea Ounce Baby.

In the latter part of August, 1879, Mrs. George Fromm, of New York gave birth to a boy weighing 11 ounces, and Saturday evening gave birth to another boy weighing only ten ounces, about 12-1/2 inches in length, with head about the size of a small orange.

The head was covered with healthy looking hair two inches in length. It is perfectly developed, fully-fledged baby, and is as lively as a cricket.
Midget number one is quite small for his age and is one of the most precocious of children.

"Isn't necessary. Only write that I remained with you three months, that will be my best recommendation."

A Storm in the Berkshire Hills.

At noon a weather-wise old resident, pointing to the docks lying off the wharf, assured me that we should have a thunder gale before night.

At mid-afternoon some pinnacles of cloud, showing pluck and gold and gray in the sunlight, appeared above the tops of the mountains—skirmishers, as we fancied, sent out by the storm god to view the prospects for a successful assault on his ancient enemies, heat and drought. At six o'clock the storm cloud swung up over the mountain summits, a great black juggled mass, hiding the sun and casting a sombre shadow over the whole valley beneath.

It caused, too, an ominous silence, only broken by some frolicsome breezes, that skipped down from the mountain, kissing the clover, waiting with the rye, rippling the mill stream, and making the aspens quiver in a tremor of excitement.

In general these mountain showers are very rapid in their movements, and burst upon the traveler with scarcely a woman's notice, but the dryness of the atmosphere caused this one to linger on the mountain top almost an hour, and gave us a fine chance to observe its operations.

Detached clouds were hurried from one part of the heavens to another, while from the mountains were ascending and descending, the form of the cloud continually enlarging.

At length, when its preparations were completed, it swept down the mountain, grand as an army with banners, and in a moment involved us in all the fury of the tempest—hail stones, volumes of rain, a continual flash and twinkle of lightning, and thunder that echoed and reverberated from mountain and cliff in one of the grandest diapasons I ever heard.

In fifteen minutes the force of the storm was spent, the meadows were flooded, and Bash Bash, Sage's Ravine, and Guilder's Hollow were beds of foaming mountain torrents.

But the air after the storm was so fresh and pure that one breath of it was worth a thousand breaths of the atmosphere of the city.

The Lion's Tongue.

The very peculiar formation of the lion's tongue did not escape the notice of our anatomist, but he does not say much about it. I have now in my hand the dried tongue of a lion; it is covered with sharp-pointed horny papillae set very thickly upon its surface. The papillae on the front portion of the tongue are much larger than those in the rear part of the tongue, but the smaller ones are not much closer together than those in front.

Each papilla consists of a horny spine, the point of which is curved and set directly backward, reminding me much of the spines on the tail of the thornback ray. On applying this lion's tongue to the cheek, I find that the roughness is so great that with a little pressure a wound might easily be made in the human skin. The use of this is to scrape off the meat from the bones of the animals, for the lion is not a great bone-eater—he leaves the bones for the hyenas to crack, these animals having teeth especially constructed for the cracking of bones.
This peculiar roughness of the tongue is also present, but in a less degree, in the common cat, and it can be seen when the cat is lapping milk, but still better if the tongue of a defunct specimen be taken out, put for a while in spirits, and then pinned out light on a board. This rough tongue is of great importance to the health of the lion.

A Young Man's Confession.

A comfortably dressed but sad looking young man, who had supped modestly in Zobel's coffee house in Bleeker street, New York, a few nights ago, seemed to have some difficulty in finding the money to pay for his cake and coffee. As he stood before the counter he rapped upon each pocket of his trousers without evoking the musical jingle of coins, and then sounded each in turn without bringing any money to light. The young man then tried his vest pockets, but found them equally unproductive. The fob was then searched, as though as a last resort, and a two dollar green back, carefully folded was brought forth. The young man sighed as he laid it on the counter with the remark, "Here she goes." Another sigh accompanied the pocketing of his cake, and he disappeared. As Mr. Zobel was smoothing the creases out of the note he noticed an inscription upon it, and, on looking more closely, found written in a fine hand, "Save your salary; don't gamble, never play faro bank. The last of a fortune of $10,000."

The Charity Organization Society of London, after which our Associated Charities were modeled, during last year gave assistance after inquiry in about 14,000 cases, and refused it in 11,000. The large proportion of refusals shows how much the society has done to prevent imposture, or, as Lord Lansdowne expressed it, to "prevent help being given to dishonest dogs, idle dogs and calculating dogs to get over the sile under pretence that they are lame dogs."

Rothschild's Maxims.

Baron Rothschild had the following maxims framed and hung up in his banking house:

Attend carefully to the details of your business.
Be prompt in all things.
Consider well, then decide positively.

Dare to do right.
Endure trials patiently.
Fear to do wrong.

Fight life's battles bravely, man-fully.
Go not into the society of the vic-tious.

Hold integrity sacred.
Injure not another's reputation or business.

Keep hands only with the virtuous.
Join your mind from evil thoughts.
Lie not for any consideration.
Make few acquaintances.

Never try to appear what you are not.

Observe good manners.
Pay your debts promptly.
Question not the veracity of a friend.

Respect counsel of your parents.
Sacrifice money rather than principle.

Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks.
Use your leisure time for improvement.

Venture not upon the threshold of wrong doing.
Watch carefully over your passions.
Extend to every one a kindly salutation.

Yield not to discouragements.
Zealously labor for the right.
Success is yours.

Mr. Brewster's Ruffles.

Concerning Attorney-General Brewster, who, in the opinion of Alexander H. Stephens, is "the ablest man who has filled that office since William Wirt held it," this pleasant paragraph appears in the Washington correspondence of the Louisville Courier Journal:

"Attorney-General Brewster's dainty ruffles at his wrists have often been noticed, because unusual in man's attire; but no one seems to understand the beautiful sentiment which for years has prompted him to wear them in spite of unpleasant remarks.

When he was first assuming the toga virtutis, his mother, whose name he cannot even now mention without emotion, called him to her, and asked him to grant a request of hers. She then explained that her father, whom she had always venerated, and who was a distinguished divine, had always worn ruffled shirts, and she would like her son, for whom she anticipated an equally brilliant future as a lawyer, to wear ruffles in memory of his grandfather. She said she would not require him to wear them on the bosom of his shirt, as that would be very conspicuous, since ruffles had been so long out of fashion for men's apparel, but she thought that at the wrists they were becoming to a man's hands; so she wished to make some herself, and purchase them on her son's shirts. He ac-cidedly to her request, and for some years she always made his ruffles for him. He has worn them always since, and thus his ruffled shirts became an expone-not only of his love for his mother, but of hers for her father."

A New Fishing Boat.

One of the handsomest steam fishing boats belonging to New York is the Arizona and was built for the menhaden fishing trade at Mystic, Conn. She is 130 feet long; breadth, 22 feet, and depth, 10 feet. Her engines are of 175 horse power, 22 inch diameter and 26-inch stroke. She has two masts. Her value is about $30, 000. The Arizona has been constructed under the personal direction of her owners with a view of making her comfortable, seaworthy and fast. As she looks lying at her dock her model is exceedingly graceful and her lines have more the appearance of a yacht than a mercantile vessel. She will carry two gangs of fishermen, making a crew of twenty-five men, who are to be comfortably housed on board. She has six boats built especially for her, and her davits, hoisting machinery, and joiner work are of the most solid description. The "fish hole" amidships is constructed on a new principle, being completely watertight. The water of the menhaden will run into the bottom, whence it is conducted in iron troughs to the after end of the compartment and pumped into the sea, making it impossible for the water to mix with the blig, and thus doing away with the odor that has heretofore characterized fishing boats which catch non-eatable fish in large quantities. The Arizona will carry 500,000 fish below decks and 250,000 above.

It would please many to have them. Francis A. Walker appointed a member of the Tariff commission.

Business is "booming" in Boston. Capitalists can't build houses fast enough to supply the demand.

The Pacific national bank of Boston has closed its door a second time, and there will be no re-opening.

Lieutenant Danenhower and his comrades of the Jeannette expedition will reach New York from Europe in a day or so. Their welcome home can be but a sad one.

The German South Polar Expedition, now at Montevideo, will be taken to the Island of South Georgia in July. The adventurous spirit of man is not daunted by any disaster, however grievous.

"President Arthur attended the horse races at the Washington course, last Wednesday, a thing which neither Grant nor Hayes did while dwelling at the White House." This is quite too dreadful!

Pennsylvania manufacturers are curtailing production. The western dry goods business is reported to be very dull. Freight on the trunk lines are light. Is the "boom" of prosperity getting lodged?

Hon. Roscoe Conkling has been interviewed. He denies that he was a party to a corrupt bargain to elect himself to the Senate last year. He denies anything and everything he said of him. Who expects him to say anything else, whatever the facts may be?

Jas. R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, have suspended the publication of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," by order of the Massachusetts authorities, on the ground that certain passages in the book are obscene. The indignant poet refused to cut out the objectionable verses, and the publication ceased.

Last week 23,545 immigrants landed at New York—the largest number that ever reached this country in a single week. The newcomers are in general sober and industrious people, and are a valuable acquisition to the United States. In the great West there are standing ready homes for millions yet to come.

It now appears that the notorious Cochet claim in Peru was passed upon in 1881 by a mixed commission of Frenchmen and Peruvians and declared baseless, and that the Landreau claim is equally without foundation. Upon how slight a foundation did this Shiphard build his million and a half company.

America is following in the footsteps of Europe. Threats of assassination are becoming disgracefully common. The latest is a postal card addressed to the President, slating in brutal language that he will be killed unless Minister Lowell is recalled and the release of the American "suspect" demanded. The rascally author should be caught, and punished to the full extent of law.

Servant Girls by the Shipment.

America, as has been remarked, is a great country. It levies tribute on the world, and all the earth contributes to its needs and comforts. No sooner is there a dire want in any direction than some enterprising individual or corporation applies the demand, however formidable the risk involved. As almost every household requires a "help," can testify, the supply of servant girls rarely equals the demand, and the first class specimens of the genus ancilla are woefully scarce. A philanthropic but shrewd society proposes to put an end to the "corner" in servant girls, by importing them from the old country by the cargo. The other day there arrived at New York a shipment of immigrants numbering 600 Irish girls, brought to this country by the kind-hearted society above mentioned. The society sends the girls to service in American families where places have been secured previous to their arrival. Many a matron, weary and worn hunting up "help," is made happy by obtaining from this society reliable servants carefully selected in Europe. If some thousands of servants are thus imported, the proud and independent spirit of the average "hired girl" will be slightly cramped, when the supply comes to exceed the demand.

Guileau's Doom Sealed.

Unless Mr. Reed, Guileau's counsel, can induce a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to issue a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of habeas corpus inquiring the doom of Charles J. Guileau, the assassin of President Garfield, is inevitably sealed. The Court of the District of Columbia in banc has decided against him, has overruled all the exceptions, and has affirmed the decision of the court below which tried, convicted and sentenced the murderer. If the cowardly murderer does not die by his own hand or through fear before the thirtieth day of June, he will meet his merited fate. No one will weep over him. Udd to live and udd to die, he is swiftly approaching his deserved doom.

The Pennsylvania Independents.

Pennsylvania promises to furnish this fall one of the liveliest campaigns in her history. The Independent Republicans held their convention at Philadelphia on Wednesday. United States Senator Mitchell was temporary chairman. In his address, he declared that the movement was a sincere effort to purify the Republican party and compel President Arthur's administration to adopt the high standard to which Garfield would have devoted his energies. State Senator Stewart was nominated for Governor, Col. William McMichael for Congress, man-at-large and the rest of a full State ticket. The convention was large and enthusiastic, and comprised many leading citizens of the State. The resolutions are strongly Republican, but declare eternal warfare against "bossism" and the "spoils system." Hon. Chas. S. Wolfe, who is the leader in this movement against the rule of the Cameron in Pennsylvania politics, proposed that henceforth the Independents be known as the "Garfield Republicans of Pennsylvania," and the acceptance was greeted with cheers of approbation.

Hon. Thos. M. Marshall has declined the nomination of Congress, man-at-large, tendered him by the regular Republicans, and as he was the only nominee not a pronounced Cameron man, his defection still further endangers the regular ticket. If the Democrats are united, it looks probable that they will be successful in the triangular contest.

A curious advertisement appears in a New York paper to the effect that a gentleman, quiet and studious, desires a furnished room and partial board in a Spiritualist family where strong physical manifestations occur. Tackling the ordinary boarding house beef steak ought to supply the "strong physical manifestations" asked for.

The New York Herald says editorially that with or without the action of Congress or of the public, care will be taken of the widow and orphan of De Long, and not of them alone, but of every widow and of every orphan of the men who sailed with the Jeannette, and have perished.

Affairs in Egypt are assuming an alarming attitude. The negotiations of consuls and the Ministers having failed, the Powers concerned will now send an ultimatum, when it is expected the Turkish troops will be allowed to enter the Khedive's domains.

Edward King telegraphs from London: The Russian press was ordered Monday to omit hereafter any report of massacre of Jews and not to discuss the question. It is rumored that General Ignatieff has gone over to the Nihilists and that revolution is possible.

An investigation is to be had in the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington, to find out how it was possible for Doyle, the counterfeiter, to have in his possession a plate, which was an electrolyte transfer from one of the government bond plates.

At a meeting of the creditors of the Providence Tool company, Thursday, a report of the condition of the company was read, and a plan evolved by which it is thought the debt can be wiped out in three years. Three trustees are to be appointed.

Moses Taylor, one of New York's oldest and most prominent business men, died on Tuesday. He was a son of John Jacob Astor's rent collector, and on beginning business for himself was aided by Astor. He became a millionaire.

The Brooklyn Sunday School anniversary was celebrated on Tuesday by a parade of six thousand children and teachers—a mighty army for good.

Ground was broken in Washington Tuesday for the Garfield Memorial Christian Church, with simple but impressive ceremonies.

It looks as if the Russian government really intends to stop the outrages against the Jews.

Congressional Business.

The House has passed the bill for the extension of the national bank charters. Its success in the Senate is almost certain. The Senate has passed the Five Per Cent. Land Bill. The Foreign Affairs committee of the House has passed a resolution declining to accept the conditions upon which Mr. Shiphard proposed to satisfy.

The Geneva award bill passed the Senate Tuesday by a large majority, substantially as it came from the House of Representatives. The Alabama Claims is thus re-established.

Representative Spooner made an argument before the House committee on public buildings and grounds Wednesday, in advocacy of the purchase of additional land adjoining the Custom House, at Providence, either by contract or condemnation, at a cost not exceeding $125,000. Mr. Spooner urged that the exigencies of the public service demand this purchase.

The Republicans of the House have been endeavoring all the week to secure the consideration of the contested case of Mackey vs. O'Connor, of South Carolina. The Democrats by persistently refusing to vote have left the house without a quorum. On Wednesday the Republicans succeeded in rallying enough of their absentees, to secure a quorum, but failed to hold it all day. Thursday was a repetition of Wednesday's struggle. The Republicans got their quorum, but lost it before the day was over.

Mysterious Manifestations of Melville.

The wife of Lieut. Melville, who says she is neither a spiritualist nor superstitious, declares that twice last summer her husband appeared to her in bodily form. The first visit was at 4 o'clock on the morning of June 11. She was lying wide awake when she was aware of a presence in the room, and her husband's voice bade her count the ship's bells. She counted eight bells, which she heard distinctly striking, and at that moment her clock struck four. Two days after the Jeannette was sunk. A few weeks later she saw her husband again at the same hour and felt his breath in her face. She was terribly startled, but had the courage to call out, "George, is that you?" when the figure disappeared without replying.

Just How It Happened.

About the Namouna's running aground recently on Potomac state, with the presidential party, the Forrit correspondent says: "Now, the day was as hot as the fabled Gehenna, and a mud bank on the Potomac is not the most hilarious spot when the thermometer climbs relentlessly into the nineties. But there they stuck. Old Admiral Ammen, who is a choleric old gentleman, paced the deck like a caged lion. The President smoked cigars that made him dream of Paradise; Mr. Bennett bore himself with the composure and self poise inherited from a long line of Celtic ancestors."

Captain Burrows, of the Rio Grande, on her last voyage from New Orleans to New York, performed the extraordinary feat of transferring his passengers from the steamer, which was on fire, to a bark; sinking his vessel in shoal water, raising her again, overhauling the bark, retransferring the passengers to the steamer and bringing them safe to port.

Reports have reached Berlin of a terrible conflagration in Kiev. The flames have been raging since Tuesday. Kiev is a fortified city of Eastern Russia, on the right bank of the Dniester river and is the residence of the Governor General of Little Russia. It contains a population of 127,281.

A Fragrant Breath and Pearly Teeth are easily obtained by cleaning your teeth daily with this justly popular dentifrice, ROSE-BRAND. Composed of rare, aromatic herbs, it imparts sweetness to the teeth, a delicious aroma to the breath, and preserves intact, from youth to old age, the teeth. Aoidity of the stomach will destroy the strongest teeth, unless its effects are counteracted with ROSE-BRAND, and this pure tooth-wash protects the dental surface by removing every impurity that adheres to them. Ask your druggist for ROSE-BRAND.

The long-looked for steamer Peruvian has arrived at Quebec.

BE CAREFUL! No matter what disease you may have, be sure that the medicine you take is reliable. Such a medicine you will always find Bulphur Bitters. They are not a cheap run drug but are made of the choicest roots and herbs to be found in the vegetable kingdom. —Daily Argus.

Mrs. Burdett, the dwarf on exhibition with Forepaugh's circus, died Thursday.

The Old Story Repeated. HARMONY, R. I. Jan. 10, 1882. Bradley's Phosphate was used by me in season side by side with another fertilizer. I give both the names clearly to give health, and I am surprised to find how much better this phosphate was than the other, or any other I have used. I can recommend it as the best fertilizer in this market.

Only two and a half inches of rain have fallen in Australia this year, and the country is suffering from the long drouth.

Why Wear Flannels? They may relieve, but they cure. Cure that is due to the kidneys and the trouble and pain that result to not directly on their secretions, to purify and restore their healthy condition. Kidney-Wort has that specific action—and at the same time it regulates the bowels perfectly. Don't wait to go sick, but get a package today, and cure yourself. Liquid and dry sold by all druggists. —German-American Telegraph.

The Depression bill has passed its second reading in the House of Commons by a vote of 333 to 45.

ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.

On the appearance of the first systems—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chills, sensations, followed by night-sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a disease of the lungs—therefore use the great anti-acrid, or blood purifier and strength-restorer, —Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to Cod Liver oil as a curative, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. For Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on Consumption, send two stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHY WE HAVE SO FEW GOOD RIDERS.

It has frequently been the subject of remark as to the cause of the scarcity of good Jockeys. To be sure we have some excellent riders—Barrett, Evans, Hughes, Barbee, Feaks, and probably half a dozen others, but not more. The secret is explained in the fact that unless a Jockey takes great care of himself constant exercise in the saddle will superinduce Piles of a most aggravating character, that teth him to his seat, particularly after getting warm in bed, and thus render him unfit for service on the track. However if Swayne's Ointment were used, the worst case of Itching Piles would be speedily cured.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

From all Parts of the World.

A Precocious Forger.
Fred Wilson, a boy of 17 years, awarded the First National Bank, of Independence, Iowa, out of $2500 by means of two forged checks purporting to be signed by his employer. The boy is missing.

Manifest Bequests.
The public bequests in the will of the late ex-Governor Washburne, of Wisconsin, aggregate over half a million dollars. The estate is nearly two-and-a-half millions. Fifty thousand dollars is given for a public library at Lacrosse, Wis., and $375,000 for a memorial orphan asylum at Minneapolis.

Two Women Killed by Ruins.
Two women met in one of the most crowded streets in Orleans, Mexico, on Sunday, and drawing revolvers kept firing at each other rapidly. Neither of them was hurt, but two women who were passing within a few yards, were shot and instantly killed. The men fled.

The Stewart Wind-up.
About 200 men were discharged Saturday from the wholesale departments of A. T. Stewart & Co., New York. From the present outlook, the wholesale departments will be closed up about July 1.

Various Matters.
Brigantine Rescue, a Newfoundland sealer, was crushed in the ice off Belle Isle. Her crew of 72 men were rescued.—In Pike county, Ark., four people were killed in a tornado on the tenth inst. Sixteen dwellings were blown down.—An English pickpocket named Woods was arrested in New York, and on his person was found the $41,000 in notes, etc., recently stolen from the pocket of the messenger of the Mechanics National Bank of that city.

Sale of the Bennett Property.
A partition sale was made on Monday of the Bennett estate in New York. The bidding was pretty spirited, but in all cases the property was knocked down to James Gordon Bennett. The property was located at Fort Washington, Fifth avenue, Twenty-first, Thirty-eight, Thirty-ninth and Nassau streets. The whole property realized $1,361,000. The Bennett building in Nassau street realized $650,000 of the amount.

Arkansas Citizens as "Justice."
A gang of horse thieves were captured and lynched, across the Missouri border, Monday, by a party of citizens from Little Rock, Arkansas.

Foreign Intelligence.
Mr. Holden, a Liberal, from the West Riding of Yorkshire, has been elected to fill the seat made vacant by the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish.—The Crivocean revolt against the Montenegrins is ended.—The Sultan of Turkey having received threatening letters is a very scared man, and keeps himself locked up in his refrigerator.—Affairs in Egypt are daily growing more complicated.—There is a rumor of an extensive plot to assassinate the Czar and his guests, at the coming coronation, which has been postponed in consequence, one year, it is said.—The German reboast has rejected Bismarck's tobacco monopoly bill by a vote of 91 to 13, as well as passed a resolution against favoring any scheme that will increase the present rate of taxation.

The News in Briefest Form.
The City of Owen Sound, a Canadian passenger steamer, was totally destroyed by fire on Lake Huron. Two persons lost their lives.—Dr. Kendall, who was fatally shot, as is supposed, he was about to rob a grave near Syracuse, N.Y.—A large fire has occurred at Lyons. Three thousand persons are thrown out of employment. The loss is $160,000. General Schofield will succeed General McDowell in command of the Division of the Pacific on the retirement of the latter.—The duke of Grafton is dead.—The main points of the Suez canal are now guarded by French gunboats.—Jumbo grew early because of stunted rations, and tossed his keeper Sunday.—Mrs. Lizzie McCall Wall, the actress, who killed her husband, George Barry Wall, in Brooklyn, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000.—A terrible fire has occurred at Leadville. Two hotels and a number of business blocks were destroyed, entailing a loss of $3,000,000. Fifteen people probably perished in one of the hotels.—The death watch on Gaitano has been set. The court in Haiti of the District of Columbia has decided, adversely, on all points of Gaitano's exceptions; so there will be no new trial.

The Malley Trial.
The defence in the Malley case Wednesday submitted some startling testimony. Maggie Kaue, a girl who it is endeavored to show might easily have been mistaken for Jennie Cramer, testified to having been at the shore on the evening of August 5th, riding on the flying-horse, and made use of certain exclamations, substantially as sworn to have been witnessed and heard of the unfortunate Cramer girl. The indications are that the Malley boys will not be convicted of the murder of Jennie Cramer; nor is it doubtful that the prosecution failed to connect the defendants directly with the deed, if murder it was.

Digestion the Great Secret of Life.
A good digestion secured by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator.
"It is commonly medicine that relieves me after suffering five years with dyspepsia, heartburn, sick headache and constipation." GEO. S. AYRES, Delaplane Sta., Va.

REFRIGERATORS

1847—ESTABLISHED—1847

Our Refrigerators have been constantly manufactured and in use for the past thirty-four years, and during that time we have added all the improvements that experience has taught, which enables us to offer to the public a

First-Class Refrigerator in Every Respect!

They have always given entire satisfaction, and for the style of workmanship and economy in ice they can not be surpassed. They are

STRONGLY BUILT, HANDSOMELY FINISHED, PERFECT IN PRACTICE.

They are lined throughout with zinc of best quality, are packed with a perfect non-conductor, and contain state stone shelves, which renders them a superior article for keeping the contents well preserved. There is no wood exposed in the interior of the Refrigerator, and this fact, taken in connection with the Slate Shelves and Galvanized-Iron Ice Rack, makes it impossible for them to contain the impure and musty air so prominent in cheaply constructed Refrigerators. Our prices are fixed at a low figure, and enables all to be supplied with a first-class Refrigerator at a small cost. All our Refrigerators are very finely grained in oak, but can be finished in any other color to order.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual, or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE.

For the Whiskers.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S Positively Restores the Hearing, and the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness Known.

This Oil is abstracted from peculiar special small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDLE.
Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its uses as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1800. Its cures were so numerous, and many seemingly miraculous, that the remedy

Ministry pronounced the cure of a similar case. He said that for over 20 years, no Deafness has existed among Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid any address, at $100 per bottle.

Hear What the Deaf Say

It has performed a miracle in my case. I have no unearthly noises in my head hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited. My Deafness helped a great deal—think every bottle will cure me.

"Its virtues are UNQUESTIONABLE" curative character ABSOLUTE, as the work can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to HATLOCK & JENNEY, 7 DeY Street, New York, enclosing $1.00, and you will receive by mail a remedy that will be as effective to heal anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret it so. —Editor of Mercantile Review
